Looking Forward

With the disbanding of the Woman's Club Juniors, the former members of that organization wish to express their heart-felt thanks to all our many friends and loyal backers without whose continued support we never would have reached the peak of achievement we did during the past year. It is to the citizens of Sierra Madre—our friends and neighbors—that we are indebted for the successful conclusion of the War Chest drive, the dance for the benefit of Officer Dan Rauscher, the financial support of the Toyloan Library, the large contribution to the Hazel Hurst Foundation through our movie quilt sale, and the sizable donation to the Red Cross through sponsorship of two youth programs. For this record, we thank you, and promise our continued endeavor to aid our community in every way possible through the founding of our new club to be known as the Sierra Madre Civic League. We hope we will again prove ourselves worthy of your support for the coming year.

Promoted

WILLIAM G. BARKS JR.
Promotion of William G. Barks Jr., chief clerk of the San Gabriel Valley district, Southern Counties Gas Company, to a position in the engineering department of the company in the Los Angeles office, was announced yesterday by A. E. Madden, company district manager. Residing in Monrovia, Mr. Barks recently was made president of the Monrovia Chamber of Commerce.

Proceeds of Woman's Club Tea Turned in to Community Fund

Total proceeds from the beautifully appointed tea given last Wednesday by the Woman's Club have been presented to the Kiwanis Club for its Community Youth Fund.

Mrs. Al Myers, program chairman, presented a delightful program featuring George Tyree and Frances Robertson. Tea hostesses were Mrs. Frank Spencer and Mrs. Harry Lange. Mrs. Woodson Jones headed the reception committee and Mrs. Robert Newbury was in charge of decorations.

A new idea in Sierra Madre was started by the members of the Woman's Club when they held a solicitation for the Blood Bank at the local theater to recruit blood donors. Members who participated were Mrs. Orin Preston, chairman; Margaret Miller, Charlotte Estes, Mrs. Charles Klunk, Maybelle Barker, Nita Twedell and Gleam Drury.

Leshers Entertain at Family Party

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Leshers of 300 Sturtevant dr. entertained their son and his wife, Ensign and Mrs. Charles Martin Leshers from Burlingame Sunday afternoon. Ensign Leshers is stationed at Treasure Island and his wife is going to Smith College to complete officer's training in the WAVES. Also present at dinner were the Leshers' two daughters, Mrs. Claude Hall and Miss Patsy Leshers of Inglewood.

Mrs. Morgan Leshers spent last week with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Chapman on their ranch in Redlands.

Guild Gives Party for Awitahan Girls

St. Catherine's Guild of the Episcopal Church, which has sponsored the Awitahan Camp Fire Girls group for five years, gave a party for the girls in the parish house of the church last Tuesday afternoon. The girls gave a splendid demonstration of what they do to attain the various ranks. This group is under the guardianship of Mrs. C. Lauren Maltby of 120 Lowell ave. The girls who attended the party included Bette Ogg, Gloria Hoover, Betty Rowe, Peggy Hower, Madeleine Martin, Norma Sparks, Jeanne Maltby, Phyllis Young and Joan Maltby.

Mapha Club Rolls Bandages for Army

The Mapha Club meeting of June 23 was held at the home of Esther Silliman in El Monte, where the group rolled bandages for the Huntington Memorial Hospital, a part of their aid to the war effort. Refreshments were served by the hostess. Those attending were Grace Haselton, Esther Silliman, Ruth Secret, Virginia Pratt, Jean Tate, Ann Hutchinson, Marjorie Black, Genevieve Nicholson, Charlotte Bush, Betty Mallory, Eleanore Quintini, Mabel White, Marilyn Paschall and Cynthia Baugh.

Local Ration Board Record Approved

The Sierra Madre - Monrovia War Price and Rationing Board has just been warmly commended by the regional OPA headquarters upon completion of an extensive audit. The accountability records were found to be in perfect balance, no small accomplishment when it involves the handling of over 135,000 documents and coupons monthly. Among the clerks directly responsible for this record were Mrs. Mary Fleming and Mrs. Laura Cadmus Edwards of Sierra Madre. During May the board issued 1597 A, B and C gas ration books; 4466 coupons for tractors, non-highway gasoline and trucks; 406 specials and furloughs; over 5000 coupons for meats and processed foods and many other certificates and grants. During the month 23 volunteers donated 750 hours of service to the board.

AIRIALETA
Airlaleta, known throughout the circus world as "Queen of the Air," will be one of the feature trapeze acts at the Fourth of July circus and fireworks display to be staged in the Pasadena Rose Bowl. As for the 17 years before the annual affair was halted by the war, the show again will be presented by the Pasadena firemen, originators of the celebration which has become recognized as one of the Southland's outstanding summer attractions.

Bowery Boy Meets a Girl from Park Ave. at the Playhouse

Park Avenue never crosses the Bowery, according to geography, and Sidney Howard proves that the fading lady from the penthouse area is no match for the ambitious gent from a Hoboken side-street in his drama, "Lucky Sam McGraw," which comes to Pasadena Playhouse July 4 to 9, as the second play in the Midsummer Drama Festival series of Sidney Howard plays.

"They Knew What They Wanted," initial Pasadena Festival stage offering, closes its run on Sunday evening, July 2.

Farewell Party for Members of the Woman's Society

The Women's Society program committee of the Congregational Church held a farewell luncheon for two of its most valued members at the home of Miss Martha Pritchard, 121 E. Alegria ave., Tuesday afternoon, June 27. Miss Francis Yeomans of Victoria lane is going to Los Angeles to live permanently, and Mrs. Milo Sabin of E. Orange Grove ave. is leaving with her husband for a summer vacation in Colorado. The members discussed plans for the fall and enjoyed a lovely luncheon served by their hostess, Miss Pritchard. Those present were Miss Yeomans, Mrs. Convers Twycross, Miss Marjorie Adams, Mrs. B. L. Hinkley, Miss Martha Pritchard and Mrs. Milo Sabin.

Get Down to Earth

A just completed national poll informs us that the number of victory gardens in the West is not up to that of last year and is nearly half a million short of the 1942 goal. A few months ago, seed companies were reporting heavy demands for vegetable seeds, indicating increased interest in victory gardens. What happened? Maybe the removal of so many foods from the ration list has made people think that gardens aren't necessary this year. If so, they are forgetting that any food surplus is only temporary and that most canned goods are expected back on the ration list later on. It may be, too, that the enthusiasm for working in the "backyard battalion" has subsided. But as long as the enthusiasm for eating remains, food must be produced. Of course, victory gardens aren't expected to serve as the main source of our supply. But they can supplement this supply and also act as a hedge against possible crop failures that might cause food shortages. Even at this time of the year it is still not too late to "get down to earth" and plant your victory garden.

Plan for D-Day

When X-Day comes, marking the fall of Hitler's European fortress, the American home front must be as well prepared as our invasion troops were when they hit the French coast on D-Day, if we are to absorb the terrific impact of sudden economic dislocations and not be staggered by the blow.

That, in substance, represents the over-all conclusion of a special Senate Committee on X-Day Planning, which has just rendered its preliminary report. And even though the defeat of Nazi Germany may still be months distant, the plans for X-Day, warns the committee, must be laid well in advance, with definite decisions reached as to the steps to be taken.

One of the sticklers in X-Day Planning is that the war will be only half won with the collapse of Hitler's Europe, but the defeat of Germany, nonetheless, is expected to recoil sharply on our war economy, with the result that the postwar reconstruction job must start before the fighting actually ends. Just a few of the plans for X-Day include the establishment of a general demobilization office, speedy termination of unnecessary war contracts and clearing of the plants in preparation for other work, wise marketing of surplus war property, new peace-time or "twilight zone" construction projects for which materials must be available immediately, retraining of war workers and return of many such workers to their former homes, drastic reduction of governmental spending, the reopening of foreign trade, and unemployment insurance for jobless workers.

Of primary importance, we believe, is the proposal that "war taxation should end with the end of the war," so that a revision of tax laws can be worked out which will encourage capital to invest in industry and provide a vast, new pool of employment. We are glad to note that War Mobilization Director Byrnes believes this downward revision of taxes should come "as soon as possible after X-Day." Above all, when our fighting men come home, we can't have the home front cluttered with the wreckage of our war economy. When X-Day comes, we, too, must be ready!

West's Post-war Problem

U. S. Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada, chairman of the Joint Committee of the House and Senate for the Decentralization of Industry, spoke with wisdom and foresight when he told a meeting of California builders recently that "The eleven Western States must join forces and fight for each other," if the West is to be developed during the postwar period.

The West, thus far, has been "the stepchild of the nation," Senator McCarran frankly declared—and will continue in that unhappy role, unless it unites on a common program. "The winning of the West" is not a task completed, but a job just begun. The great markets of our new postwar world lie across the Pacific—markets which will enable the Western States to come of age, industrially, and usher in a new golden era for all America, if we are alert to our opportunities. And in union, there is strength!

We heartily concur in Senator McCarran's suggestion of a Western Coalition, which will deal intelligently and energetically with Western problems. In the broad sense, "the winning of the West" is not a task completed, but a job just begun. The great markets of our new postwar world lie across the Pacific—markets which will enable the Western States to come of age, industrially, and usher in a new golden era for all America, if we are alert to our opportunities. And in union, there is strength!

Now, as never before, your country looks to you to do your patriotic duty. For this is the showdown. And what's your part in this bitter struggle? Right now, it's to get behind the 5th War Loan and invest in War Bonds.

Here and There

By Dean A. G. H. Bode

WE have heard much of the island of Malta lately, and of the bombings and the bravery of the people, and of the honors conferred on them by high military authorities. Some account of a visit there may be interesting. One morning on a voyage through the Red Sea and the Mediterranean, I woke to find my steamer, the old Peninsular and Oriental "Parramatta," quite still, and looking through the porthole discovered that we were in a bay, with a city in the distance and two great forts threatening from the ends of the bay. "Where are we?" was the question. And the answer, "In St. Paul's Bay, Malta." We dress quickly and are allowed to go ashore, to the same shore which St. Paul and his fellow-voyagers reached, "some on boards and some on broken pieces of the ship," after the shipwreck vividly described in the book of the Acts in the New Testament.

My recollection of the "Marina," the waterfront of the city of Valletta, which we entered, is of a space backed by Italian-looking houses, tinted with various pleasant colors. We took a walk up a very steep street called the "Strada Reale." It was early and we met a milkman making his rounds. He led his goat, knocked on doors, and if you wanted a pint of milk, he milked that amount from the goat in a pint measure, and went on to the next customer. This may have been one of the goats that gave us the Malta or undulant fever. In Gibraltar they tell you how the fever was prevalent when they imported goats from Malta, and that when the goats were excluded the fever abated. This was one of the ways in which the source was discovered. (By the way, Malta fever is very prevalent in California just now, and I'm sure the doctors won't mind my advising pasteurized milk, and butter from pasteurized milk as a safeguard.)

Besides the milkman, I remember the fish seller with a pan of fish on his head; the bran-seller with a sack on her head and a tin measure in her hand; Maltese ladies with opaque black veils and hoods concealing all the face except the eyes—a survival, I was told, from Mohammedan days.

WE came upon a very spacious open square in the middle of the city. There were man-holes all over this square through which one could see men here and there carrying sacks of grain and other provisions, to be stored below in a vast subterranean granary and store-cellar against a siege or time of famine—enough food to last for a very long time. No doubt it was used during the recent bombings.

BUT the great sight was the famous Church of St. John, where everything in the sanctuary seemed made of solid silver. This was the Church of the Knights Hospitallers of St. John of Jerusalem. Above the altar was a great piece of statuary representing St. John the Baptist. The people of Malta were glad to tell visitors about the Knights of St. John, who ruled there, after the Turks, for nearly 300 years. They called their chief city Valletta, after Vallette, a Grand Master of the Knights. "The Knights of St. John are of interest to us today because the Freemasons claim a revival of the order in the 18th century, and our Masons observe St. John's day, June 25, as was done last Sunday.

The very interesting history of the Knights of St. John began about 1100 with an association of merchants of Amalfi, in Italy, who had dealings with Palestine. One of the enterprises of these early merchants was the building, in Jerusalem, with the permission of the Khalif, of a monastery and a convent to receive and assist pilgrims who came from the west, and soon they added a hospital for the poor and sick among the pilgrims and the wounded of the Crusaders. The hospital was dedicated to St. John, hence the name "Knights Hospitallers of St. John." Their devoted care of the sick and wounded won them praise and support and wealth from all countries. They became a military religious order, divided into soldier-knights, chaplains, and serving-brothers who took care of the hospital, though all members shared the hospital work when free. In 1291, when Palestine was lost by the Crusaders, they were expelled from Acre, and took refuge first in Cyprus, then in Rhodes, and later moved to Malta. They did a great work in rescuing captives from the pirates of the Mediterranean and keeping the sea safe for travelers and pilgrims. For 400 years, from 1100 to 1500, the historians tell us, they had been very charitable, and among their customs were the care of Crusaders' children and of infants abandoned after a cruel custom of those early times; the giving of money to prisoners, and clothing when they were freed; the giving of marriage portions to poor girls, and of food and clothing three times a week to those who asked; the feeding of the hungry at the Knights' table; the provision of a tailor's room for mending the clothing of the poor; the keeping the pirates off the sea, and many other good works. The Knights settled in Malta in 1530, and improved the rocky island by bringing in vast quantities of soil from Sicily. Napoleon took the island in 1798, and expelled the Knights, whose order then became practically extinct.

THE motive behind the noble work of the Knights was religious—derived from the Bible and Christianity. The same motive has operated among good people continuously. The Jewish people, through the Bible, taught us "to consider the poor and needy, and to bind up the broken-hearted," the early Christians did the same. Hospitallers and other religious orders in the church cared for the sick and poor for centuries. Young ministers today give the old promise "to seek for all sick, poor, and impotent folk," that they may be helped; and bishops promise "to be gentle, and merciful to poor and needy people and to all strangers destitute of help." Jewish and Christian hospitals abound and countless works of mercy are carried on by our churches. And now municipalities, counties, States, and whole nations like our United States, have learned to share the good work undertaken for centuries by the people of religion, in helping those in need through no fault of their own, and assume an ever-increasing part of the care of the distressed at home and of war-victims abroad. Though I think too much is still left to be done by a kind-hearted minority among us. History repeats itself. The spirit of the Knights Hospitallers of Malta is alive in our town, as we gather into groups to provide bundles of clothing, medical supplies, money and food for the cold and sick and hungry in many lands.

As the Knights of the earlier time took the cross of religion as the symbol of their spirit, so our great international organization of mercy, the Red Cross, has taken the cross again as the symbol of its spirit. A visit to Malta reminds us that institutions may vanish, but the Spirit goes on creating new ones to take their place. The Maltese cross of the Knights of Hospitallers, beginning in Jerusalem and working long ago in the Mediterranean, is superseded by the Red Cross of an international order, beginning in Switzerland and working now in all the civilized countries of the world.

OUR DEMOCRACY—by Mat

"Proclaim Liberty throughout the Land unto All the Inhabitants thereof."—LEVITICUS XXV, 10.

THE LIBERTY BELL—Independence Hall, Philadelphia, rang on July 8, 1776 to proclaim the adoption of the Declaration of Independence on July 4. Its echo has sounded through the years, an enduring symbol of freedom and justice.

On this Fourth of July it calls on each of us for a rededication to those principles,—for renewed faith and intensified effort in these stern days.

The most astonishing thing in the air operations accompanying the invasion of France was the success of heavy bombers against Germany's heavy coastal defense. The assault was made by 1300 Lancasters and Halifaxes of the RAF for six hours during early darkness of the invasion morning and was continued for another three hours by American bombers. The results surprised everybody, for the majority of German heavy guns never fired when the invasion got under way. In the preparation of maps for the French invasion coast the utmost secrecy was maintained by splitting the work into innumerable fragments and a minute portion being assigned to each draftsman and printer which conveyed nothing of the final picture. The fact that every firm in Britain capable of printing a map was continuously on the job during the last stages of preparation indicates the vastness of the enterprise. More maps of France have been produced in Britain during the past two years than by France herself in 2000 years, the British War Office announced.

The invasion of Europe undoubtedly marks the beginning of an end to one phase of America's wartime economic life but does not, by a wide margin, mean that the overall pace of our war production will or can be lowered for months to come. While it can be taken for granted that industry has produced the arms and material needed for the long-planned invasion, it is agreed by most authorities that an equally high production rate will have to be maintained until the surrender of Germany. With Germany out of the picture it is anticipated that military demands upon industry will drop from 35 to 50 per cent. At that time the War Production Board, says Chairman Donald Nelson, will do everything possible to allow essential civilian production wherever it does not interfere with war production needed to lick Japan. The fact that the invasion is actually in progress makes more urgent the completion of plans for reconversion from war to peace production. There are bound to be temporary employment disruptions with the cancellation of war contracts. But the lag in civilian needs here and the dire need for similar goods throughout the world ought to generate plenty of orders to keep American factories and workers busy for a long time provided legislation is passed and other necessary steps are taken in advance to assure a reasonably quick and smooth transition to all-out civilian production when we need it to sustain our economy.

Of every $100 Americans saved in 1943, they loaned 44 to the government to help pay for the war.

The battle for the World is on!

NOW THAT the chips are down . . . now that our men are writing decisive history with their blood . . . There can be no halfway measures for us.

The greatest battle in the history of the world must be matched by the greatest war loan in the history of the world.

That's what Uncle Sam says . . . the same Uncle Sam for whom your brothers and sweethearts and husbands are fighting and dying this very minute.

They, in the front lines, are throwing in everything they have.

We, behind the lines, must do the same.

Remember, this is the battle for the WORLD. Our world. And we've got to win it. That's why Uncle Sam expects every dollar, like every soldier, to do its duty.

Put this Fifth War Loan over . . . buy more War Bonds than you think you can!

FIRE FLAMES

By One of the Boys

Inspections now under way reveal that many back yards are in bad condition and many fire hazards are being eliminated. The town is growing and the many strangers are not acquainted with the rules for burning trash. This is giving Fire Marshal Bill Lees and Fire Chief Jim Heasley many calls for inspections. If it were only possible to explain to people just how easily an unwanted fire can get started, yards would be kept clear of piles of rubbish and inflammable materials. A good garden hose is a fine protection—it is useless when a large area gets started. Have it ready when burning and always keep your fire small.

With Harold Speers and Ray Penn as the caterers the fellows enjoyed all the ice cream they could eat Friday evening. And it was surprising how many stayed after the meeting, which proves that ice cream does not lose in popularity.

Tuesday will be a great day for the firemen when they meet for the annual 4th of July picnic. Joe Swanson assures all that there will be plenty to eat as the fines have been heavy during the past year.

The Nebraska State Society will hold its annual big summer picnic in Bixby Park, Long Beach, Saturday, July 15. District Attorney Fred N. Howser, born in Nebraska, will be the principal speaker.

Dear Professor:

Saw a sign in a window, "Dickens works here all this week for $4.98." Ain't that awful cheap? Ans.: It's cheaper than I'd work.

Kindly give me an example of good neighbor policy.

Ans.: Feeling happy about loaning that Mrs. Murphy your corn beef to boil with her cabbage.

"YOURS FOR SERVICE"

Expert Repairing

47 W. SIERRA MADRE BLVD.

(Next to Red Cross)

"Whenever I see Army planes in the sky, I watch them and wish...wish I were a man so I, too, could fly for my country. But, I've found out that I CAN help our flying fighting men in a very important way...as a Wac in the AAF. I'll be stationed at an Army Air Field and whatever they train me to do I know I'll be proud of my part the rest of my life.

Yes, I've decided...I'm going to be an Air Wac!"

There's vital and interesting work for YOU in the Women's Army Corps... you may select duty with the Army Ground, Army Service, or the Army Air Forces. As an Air Wac, you will work side by side with Army flyers...at an Army Air Field.

You may already be fitted for service as an Air Wac. If not you'll be specially trained on the job.

Food, housing, clothing, transportation, medical and dental care are furnished. Your Army pay is all clear. You will make new friends, see new places, start a career in a great postwar industry...aviation!

Join our Soldiers With Wings—the need is urgent! Of course, there are questions you want answered...so, send in the coupon below, or—

MY HEART IS OVER THERE

That's why my HANDS are busy here!
MILLIONS of American women are applying their hands over here, answering Uncle Sam's call to help with our national food crisis. With 20 million Victory Gardens and five billion jars of home-canned foods, they conserved our resources of fighting foods in 1943.
In 1944 you are being asked to raise and preserve 20 percent more, to assure every fighting Yank and his brother—as well as the home front—with needed nourishment.
For success, can with care, following proper instructions,* and use BALL JARS. They have been the housewife's preference for more than 60 years. Leaders always!

Why we're buying WAR BONDS

In addition to seeing that train movements essential to Victory come first—

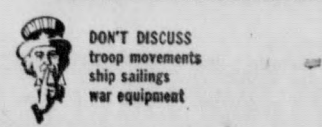

Santa Fe employees in pay roll deductions alone are buying well over $1,000,000 of War Bonds every month!

We know there is no better way for us to back up those who have the toughest job of all in this dirty war—those millions of men and women in our fighting forces. 10,000 of them are former Santa Fe employees.

By buying War Bonds and keeping "Loaded for War" trains rolling, we know we are helping to bring our victorious forces home quicker—and providing ourselves with savings for the days of peace to come.

No matter where you work let's all dig a little deeper and buy more War Bonds now.

JUST 15 MINUTES

Yes, the last 15 minutes of the war will take a terrific toll of American lives and cost huge sums of money. That's why we must go all out NOW to end the struggle as soon as possible. For us at home this means buying War Bonds ... it means buying them regularly and in larger amounts. Let's remember this the next time we are tempted to spend our money on nonessentials and instead put it where it will bring VICTORY SOONER.
